WEEK 4 : ASSIGNMENT 4

1. A company redesigns job roles frequently due to restructuring. Based on the concept of job-based vs. organization-based Psychological Ownership (PO), which strategy would best help maintain employee engagement during these transitions?
   a) Develop a job-based PO first as a pathway to building an organization-based PO.
   b) Increase salary packages to compensate for role uncertainty.
   c) Restrict participation in decision-making to senior employees only.
   d) Focus exclusively on Collective PO by merging all teams.

2. A newly appointed manager in a public-sector organisation struggles to align team performance with organisational goals. Which course of action would be most appropriate?
   a) Delegate all strategic responsibilities to subordinates.
   b) Focus only on day-to-day operational tasks.
   c) Actively participate in strategy formulation and align team activities to both short-term and long-term organizational objectives.
   d) Wait for directives from top management before initiating any action.

3. According to Boyatzis (1982), managerial effectiveness is primarily about achieving measurable output targets tied to a manager's specific position.
   a) True
   b) False

4. A project manager completes all deliverables on time and within the allocated budget, but the project fails to address the actual needs of the client. Using the Effectiveness vs. Efficiency framework, how would this manager's performance be classified?
   a) Effective and Efficient
   b) Effective and Inefficient
   c) Ineffective and Inefficient
   d) Ineffective and Efficient

5. A team leader at an IT firm consistently empowers subordinates, helps them grow professionally, ensures their needs are prioritized, and fosters ethical behavior. According to Liden et al. (2008), which leadership style is this leader demonstrating?
   a) Transactional Leadership
   b) Servant Leadership

c) Charismatic Leadership
d) Autocratic Leadership

6. Kirchoff (1977) defined managerial effectiveness as the act of fulfilling _____ rather than optimising one objective.
   a) Multiple expectations
   b) Financial targets
   c) Regulatory requirements
   d) Team deliverables

7. Which of the following statements best describes Psychological Ownership (PO)?
   a) It is the legal right an employee holds over company shares.
   b) It is a formal arrangement that automatically increases when employees receive stock options.
   c) It refers exclusively to collective ownership within a team.
   d) It derives from an individual's perception of ownership through feelings of responsibility, accountability, or personal investment of time or effort.

8. The role of a manager in an organisation is limited to short-term operational planning and has little influence on long-term corporate success.
   a) True
   b) False

9. Drucker (1988) stated that an executive is expected to 'get the right things done.' This idea most closely aligns with which of the following concepts?
   a) Managerial effectiveness, because it focuses on achieving the correct goals rather than merely performing tasks.
   b) Managerial efficiency, because it focuses on optimal resource utilisation.
   c) Managerial competency, as it emphasises the development of personal skills.
   d) Collective psychological ownership, as it involves shared accountability.

10. According to Al-Madhoun & Analoui (2004), managers play a significant role in determining corporate success through which of the following activities?
    a) Managing employee personal conflicts and grievances.
    b) Development, formulation, and execution of the organisation's long-term and short-term strategies.
    c) Controlling the financial budget of the organisation exclusively.
    d) Recruiting and selecting employees at all levels.

Answers:

1. a)
2. c)
3. b)
4. d)
5. b)
6. a)
7. d)
8. b)
9. a)
10. b)

* End of the Page **********